TWENTY-TWO YEARS IN NORTH- ERN LANDS

Edmonton, April 3rd.—Bronzed and bearded as a pig was Rev. Father Gony, superior of St. Isidore Mission, at Fort Smith, on arriving in Edmonton today after a voluntary exile of 22 years among the Cree Indians living north of the 60th parallel of latitude. He is on the way to Nanticoke, France, where he will visit his aged parents, journeying thence to Rome for an audience with Pope Pius, X., and returning to the Mackenzie River district early the coming September.
"It seems good to be in civilization and more after such a long stay in the vast hinterland of Alberta. The most interesting to me is the wonderful transformation of a crude frontier village, such as Edmonton was when I came through here in 1892, to a substantially built city of 70,000 ambitious and progressive people."

"We have a good country around Fort Smith. We have raised No. 1 hard wheat and all kinds of vegetable horses and cattle can be watered along with the remainder of buffalo. The nearest settlement to us is Smith Landing 16 miles south, while on the north we have Fort Simpson, 500 miles distant and Port Macleod, 1,000 miles distant. Truly, it is a country of magnificent distances and possibilities."

HOMESTEAD ACT CHANGES BEN- EFIT TO NEW SETTLERS

Ottawa, Ont., March 31.—Hon. Dr.
Booth Monday afternoon a number of important changes in the homestead and pre-emption acts. These changes have been under consideration for some time and have for their object the improvement of the position of the new settlers and the encouragement of the cattle industry.
The amendments to the Dominion Land Act are of far-reaching importance to the western homesteader. One clause reduces the time for securing patents on preemptions from six to three years and abolishes the interest charges of five per cent. However, a homesteader has the option of paying for his preemption in six years and in that case is charged interest during the last three years.

Another important amendment relates to the highest grade to qualify for their patent by keeping stock instead of occupying land to a certain amount as at present. There must now be one head of cattle, in the second year and one in the third year. In the pre-emption land, the homesteader can also secure his patent by keeping stock in lieu of cultivation, except that by the third year, he must have 24 head of stock instead of 16. The principal object of this amendment is to encourage mixed farming and cattle raising. There are a number of other amendments, of which the most important are those relating to entry on sale lands adjacent to water powers.

CAMROSE (From the Canadian)

The return from England this week of Roland Gould, formerly of New Norway, means further farm development in the Camrose district. Mr. Gould has associates will establish a stock farm on the north west quarter of section 34-45-50, six miles north of town on the Dried Milk Lake road. Several hundred head of young cattle which have been wintered in the New Norway district are now being transferred to the stock farm.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the Canadian Club on Monday evening last. The following comprised the Board of Trade executive for the coming year: President, Robt. Forbes.
Vice-President, F. L. Farley.
2nd Vice-President, D. Sampson.
Executive committee: J. Harris, J.
C. Duncan, Wm. Watson, U. Cunningham, C. R. Woodruff, W. J. Mc-Kay, F. P. Layton and J. Adair Young.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Televeaux are renewing acquaintances in town this week from their return from a prolonged visit to Ontario.

R. W. Watson of Trochu who has purchased the Union Hotel at Bawlf has taken possession this week.
E. C. Clevin special immigration officer for the Department of the Interior with headquarters at Winnipeg, visited the Camrose district this week. Mr.
Clevin is engaged in securing letters from Scandinavian people as to the scheme they have had in farming in Western Canada.

The many friends in Camrose of J.
Reginald Davison, are pleased to learn of his appointment as the first industrial commissioner for the city of Vancouver. Mr. Davison had his introduction to publicity work as Camrose where he was held the position of industrial commissioner. From Camrose, Mr. Davison went to Red-deer then to Nanaimo and now his experience in this important work will be used for the benefit of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

Matthew McCalla, warden of the Alta. Prison at Edmonton, has resigned. He has held office since the penitentiary was opened eight years ago.

RUTHENIAN TRY TO BULLY GO- VERNMENT

Edmonton, March 31.—Last year the trustees of the Bukovina school district, north of Wetaskiwin, undertook to hire a man named W. A. Cramer, a Ruthenian from Manitoba holding no qualifications suitable him to teach school in this province, to teach their school. As soon as it was discovered Mr. Fletcher, supervisor of foreign schools informed the board that qualified teachers were available and they must employ a qualified teacher. They refused to do so.
All efforts to induce them to comply with the law having failed, Mr.
Fletcher was appointed official trustee of the district. Trouble arose over getting possession of the schoolhouse and they were fined.
Cramer, the said teacher assisted by some outside agitators, induced the people to erect a little log school house and he conducted a private school in the building until Christmas.
In the meantime the treasurer paid out considerable money, some of it to Cramer and some to pay the expense and costs of the men who were fined. Mr. Fletcher as official trustee sued the treasurer, Stefan Kueker, for the return of the money.
The case was tried before Judge Crawford on March 27 and judgment given in favor of Mr. Fletcher.
The next day the former trustees of the district accompanied by Mr. Alcison called on the minister of education at the parliament buildings to try and induce the minister to remove Mr. Fletcher as official trustee and permit again. They conducted their affairs again. They stated frankly that they intended to hire a Ruthenian as teacher. They were by keeping Mr. Boyle that there was not the slightest objection to their employing a Ruthenian teacher if he held certificate of qualification, exhibiting his teach in the schools of this province.
This, however, was not satisfactory to them. They claimed the right to have their own teachers in their school whether qualified or not.
They stated that in the province of Manitoba their Ruthenian friends were permitted to employ unqualified teachers without the regular qualifications and were permitted to use in their schools, textbooks printed in the Ruthenian language and thought they were entitled to the same privileges here. Mr. Boyle pointed out that they were receiving exactly the same treatment as other people; that the department maintains the same type of school for all citizens in this country; have standard of qualification for teachers. All teachers who prepare themselves in accordance with this standard are granted certificates to teach school no matter what their religion or nationality may be.
Then they inform him that they had been Liberals in politics and that if the Liberals did not grant them what they considered to be the privileges they were entitled to, the Conservatives would do so if given a chance.
They pointed out that their people were receiving concessions from the Conservatives in Manitoba and that if the Liberals in Alberta were not prepared to grant them similar privileges the Ruthenian people in the province would vote against the Liberals and put them out of office at the first opportunity.

Mr. Boyle informed them that if the Liberals had to retain office in Alberta by granting special privileges to different races of people they did not wish to retain office and that the government would not be intimidated in establishing any special type of school in any settlement. In the province that they were receiving the same treatment as other people and in his opinion ought to be satisfied.
The minister advised them to go home, send their children to school as they had been doing before, the trouble occurred and demonstrate to the department that they were prepared to comply with the law and when the department was satisfied from the actions of the people in the district that they could be relied on to conduct their own school in accordance with the official trusteeship and that they were permitted to have their own school house.

Killarney Man, April 2.—During an electrical storm which raged last night struck the barn of Charles Pritchard, a few miles east of town, burning the building to the ground. The quantity of hay laid out. The loss is about $600 with insurance of $400.

MR. HORSE
The good old horse, of sterling worth, has not yet fallen off the earth I notice by public prints that steeds of all the standard kinds, strawberry roan, bay and bay, buff, chestnut black and dappled gray, bring just as much as horses brought before your eyes were ever sprung. When something new has come to pass, some engine-driven thing of brass, some car that eats up gasoline instead of browning the green, the prophet said, "This spells the end of Dobbin, man's old trusty friend!" This gives the last the final jolt, to every gelding, mare and colt! The equine tribe will just as well quit while we toll its knell. For travelling, the motor car, than any horse is better far; and when it comes to heavy weight, the motor truck can get the job; so there's no place on earth, indeed, for any baldhead sorrel steed. And yet the steeds refuse to creep, heart-broken, to the rubbish heap. Their heads and tails are high in air, and they are wanted everywhere. They caper, beautiful and nice, commanding such a gogood price bologn makers can't afford to purchase samples from the horde.

INDUSTRIAL ACADEMY AT LA COMBE ENTERING TEMPERANCE WORK

Because of the large number of students of the Albert, Industrial Academy Lacombe, entering the Temperance campaign, last Thursday, April 2 was declared a holiday. Thirty-seven students and teachers availed themselves of the opportunity and consequently there were very few homes with a radius of ten miles of Lacombe that were not visited and invited to assist in the temperance work.

The outside towns visited include Red Deer, Ponoka, Wetaskiwin and Stettler, in each of which good success was achieved. The Temperance literature to the amount of $105.00 was distributed, and the following list indicates the gifts received in the different places visited:

Wetaskiwin and Ponoka	$49.35
Red Deer	21.75
Lacombe	20.00
Stettler	20.00
Country	26.80
Total	$138.25

Several teams were employed and the thirty-seven persons travelled over 400 miles, distributed 8,778 temperance tracts, and nearly 1,000 copies of the temperance literature of the "Youth's Instructor".

CAMROSE ENDORSES MONEY BY LAWS ENTHUSIASTICALLY

Camrose, Alta., April 6.—Four by-laws authorizing the town council to raise money by issue of debentures to the amount of $50,000 were passed today by ratifiers by overwhelming majorities. The vote of 11 showed the interest taken in the expenditure and the fact that only two voted against the by-law showed how citizens are backing money and credit in this year's undertaking. Money will be used to cover cost of a number of waterworks, sewer and electric light systems made last year, and to further extend the municipal utilities. Mayor or Towney called a ratifiers' meeting last Friday evening, when the council programme was satisfactorily explained.

Sak was made today of valuable iron, one block from Main street, which will be erected a magnificent building garage.

Red Deer, April 6.—It is announced that the provincial government will assist in the construction of an overhead bridge, spanning the C.P.R. tracks southwest section of the city.

Mr. Fred Spoor who since coming to Leduc has been in the employ of both lumber butchers, left this week to assume a similar position in Wetaskiwin. Representative.

Brought Back to Life

A Story of the Twenty-first Century

By F. A. MITCHELL

From the New York Times, July 30, 1901.

Near the middle of the nineteenth century an ingenious Frenchman wrote a story based on the idea that the living human body by a process of exhaustion of its motive called dedication could be kept as a mummy for an unlimited period and by the re-introduction of water could be reanimated. This literary production was considered by the people of that age to be very ingenious and highly imaginative. There was no pretense on the part of the author that the idea on which it was built was or ever would be possible, nor was it taken seriously by the public.

The coming of the twentieth century marked the beginning of a new scientific era. For a hundred years men had been discovering that they could talk to each other from different parts of the globe; that disease was nothing more or less than the work of tiny, but deadly, germs and hundreds of other-to them-mysterious processes of nature. These discoveries were mostly accidental. But about the year 1900 rich men began to found institutions with a view to making regular progress.

One of the most important subjects studied by these institutions has been the human body and its mysterious life process which is born with it and grows as it grows. In the year 1912 scientists began to experiment, among other things, on the animal heart and found that portions of it removed from the body and cultivated in hypoxic plasma would pulsate for several months. This changed the conditions under which the animal might be pronounced dead. It was also about this time that scientists laid down two causes of bodily death or corruption—the action of microbes and self-digestion. From this scientific fact nature followed the axiom—exclude the microbes, exhaust the water and there can be no death.

A hundred years have intervened between a knowledge of this fact and its being put in practice. That which 100 years ago was the basis of an unprofitable extravagance has today become the subject of an actual occurrence.

It appears that about the middle of the twentieth century there lived in Chicago, then a small city of not more than four or five millions of people, a meat preserver named Swartz, whose name is not known, rather than follow in the footsteps of his father, to devote himself to scientific research. Being left to a couple of billion dollars, or 2,000 millions, and the people of that day had not been driven by vast accumulations to our present system of typifying fortunes—he was not prevented from following unmercenary tastes by poverty.

This Adrian Swartz loved a beautiful girl whose name appears on the records as Muriel Anderson. Professor Swartz worked on his own lines, in his own laboratory, keeping his investigations a profound secret. What he was doing has only come to light fifty years after he was engaged in his work. He was absorbed in two studies in his investigations with a view to perpetuating the life principle and Miss Muriel Anderson.

It was then known that different parts of the body may be taken from a person who has recently been pronounced dead by the old standard and preserved in cold storage vaults for an indefinite period. The young professor was able to start on his investigations with a knowledge of this and other facts. Knowing that corruption may be kept out by excluding microbes and water, he devoted himself to the discovery of a process by which, after having kept them out, the water might be reintroduced at a later date without admitting the microbes. That the breathing process may be suspended without producing corruption was also known to Professor Swartz, and this was a very important point. The main problem before him was not how to keep out corruption, but to restore animation.

Miss Muriel Anderson was taken ill and died. Her lover's grief was so great that for a time it was feared that he would lose his reason. There was no evidence that the body was not supposed to be buried, which was the usual method in those days. After the girl's death Swartz was observed to pursue his investigations with still more eagerness than before. Indeed, his relatives feared that he would go insane on the subject of perpetuating life.

There are traditions that a dog belonging to one of his friends died and ten years later appeared at his master's door and showed great delight at the reunion. It was whispered that the dog had been reanimated by the young professor. There was a similar story about a cat, but unscientific persons claimed there was nothing remarkable in bringing back a cat to life except for the tenth time. These matters are mentioned here to show that it was supposed Professor Swartz was reported to have achieved some success in his work.

Recently there was a commotion in the Institution For Scientific Research, located in this city. Doctors and professors have been seen to be consulting together in whispers, but despite the improved methods used by some of our enterprising reporters for magnifying the whinner waves the secret was kept. Then it was confided to one or two persons that a body that had been more than half a century ago prepared for a life perpetuating process had been discovered and removed to the institution. With it was a paper some four decades old, giving the results of experiments in reanimating bodies. A report was circulated that late discoveries completed the process laid down in the paper and might possibly render it effective.

We are enabled in this issue, owing to the enterprise of one of our reporter staff, who used ear megaphones, X-ray telescopes for looking through stone walls and other modern devices, to give our readers the most remarkable achievement in science ever produced by mortal man.

In the year 1905, when the thermometer stood 30 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, there died in Chicago Muriel Anderson. The night of her burial her lover went alone to her grave, exhumed her body and removed it to his laboratory, the object being to attempt to reanimate it. He did not then perfect any process by which this could be accomplished and for the time being devoted himself to preserving the body. His method was twofold, surrounding it by chemically produced cold—250 degrees Fahrenheit—and aseptic sealing. This accomplished, the body was left in a vault under the laboratory, and the professor proceeded with his experiments for resuscitation on his lover's animal.

Time passed without any results sufficiently certain to warrant the professor in risking the life of his loved one in cold storage.

Professor Swartz died without giving up his secret, but he made provision for a continuance of his work continued upon certain important lines. Recently the ground on which his laboratory stood was sold for the purpose of erecting a 200 story skyscraper upon it. It is fitting for the foundations the workmen came upon a subcellar of vault fifty feet below the surface in which was a large glass mausoleum. Attached to it was a ladder to look in the wall behind a metal plate. There was discovered a paper stating that the mausoleum contained the body of Muriel Anderson, supposed to have died in 1905. Then followed a statement giving the process for life preservation—the results of Professor Swartz's investigations with a view to reanimating bodies.

The day was reported to the owner of the property, and he summoned a member of the corps of investigators of the Institution For Scientific Research. The mausoleum was removed to the institution and the professor and discussed at a meeting of its staff of investigators. It at once appeared that certain obstacles that had been in the way of Professor Swartz had been removed by recent discoveries made at the institution.

The first question discussed was whether the body would be found upon examination to have retained the germs of life for half a century, but it was agreed that this knowledge could only be gained by the right process of reanimation. That process was under discussion for several weeks with every effort to keep the secret. Finally Dr. Shuntzner, Ph.D., U.S. Investigator in science, presented a plan of procedure that captured the investigators, and it was determined to put it in practice at once.

The glass sarcophagus was found to contain water, but at a temperature of 143 degrees minus, or in the solid form. Its introduction had been intended to show that water should be introduced when reanimation was commenced; water was gradually introduced and with infinitesimal quantities of oxygen and then a little ordinary atmosphere.

The body resembled a skeleton covered with leather, but under a slow process of the introduction of air and water a slight filling out was perceptible. The laboratory was gradually used, and successfully. So slow was the process that it was a week before the watchers began to perceive the slightest signs of a living organism, and even then there was no certainty concerning it.

It would be impossible for the unscientific mind to follow the various devices preventive of danger applied by the revivers. Results alone can be given. Within ten days the body had assumed some degree of roundness. There was still the pallor formerly supposed to indicate death, but now known to be more or less only a suspension of the action of the heart. The first sign of life was a slight tremor, at which the reanimators clasped one another in an ecstasy of hope.

It was soon after this that the body was removed from the sarcophagus and placed in a warm bed. The region about the heart was then alternately eluted and released once in several seconds to start the action of that organ. The arms were worked to and fro to start respiration. A very small quantity of food was administered.

On the eighteenth day while the reanimators were all present the lips moved, and the single word "Adrian" was faintly spoken.

The scientists were delighted. But their joy was soon turned to disappointment. Despite all effort and care the signs of life died away and have never returned. It is believed that when consciousness returned it brought with it the inability to mental distress, which we now know is the body's greatest enemy. This produced the reaction.

A life held in suspense for years has been temporarily restored. But what are the conditions of this suspended animation? Who knows?

BRINTON'S SLAYER TO PAY PEN-ALTY WITH HIS LIFE

Juarez, April 6.—Major Rodolfo Pierra of General Villa's staff, is to be executed as the result of an investigation by a commission appointed by General Carranza into the killing of William S. Benton, the Scotchman on February 17. This was announced here yesterday together with a statement that the report of the commission finding is practically complete. Major Pierra is now in the penitentiary in Chihuahua city. He has been relieved of his command in the rebel army, stripped of his rank and is being held incommunicado by Gen. Villa's orders. The report of the Carranza commission will show that when Benton was killed in the latter's office in Juarez, Villa ordered Major Pierra to place him under arrest and to take him by train to Chihuahua that night, and place him in the penitentiary.

"I will see how he acts after a month," General Villa is reported to have said. "If he is unobedient, I will liberate him that he may return to the United States; if not I will hold him a while longer."

Pierra and a squad of soldiers boarded the train with Benton that night. A short distance south of Juarez, the testimony states Pierra shot Benton in the head behind the left ear. The train was stopped. The dying man removed and then the rifle squad poured a volley of bullets into his body. Benton's body was then buried in a shallow grave at Samalayuca.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SPRING

The March issue of the bulletin sent out by the Conservation Commission contains a few Spring suggestions to farmers which may be interesting. Beginning with sound advice of the necessity for thoroughly cleaning seed grain, and of testing all purchased seed, the writer proceeds: "Examine your seed drill. Should a new drill be necessary, try a wide disc drill. Harrows. A spike-toothed harrow is one of the best implements for conserving moisture, and fluffing the surface soil. One stroke with sharp teeth is a good or better than two strokes with dull teeth. Ploughs. For spring work use the sharp wide mould board and a rough shallow, except when smothering couch grass. See that the coulter and share are sharp. A two-furrow plough for spring work is better than a single plough. Roller. Some soils may require tightening or loose work may require need replacing it purchasing a new one, examine the flexible, 2 section roller. When using the roller attach a set of carrows behind. The do good work together."

SIGNS OF SPRING

High ball, low ball, slow ball, curve. Season will offer the diamond swerve. Players go and players come. (Federal league is getting some) Contracts, signed by bony hand. Come from all throughout the land. Soon the teams will go down south To the Mississippi's mouth. There to have the college boys. Beating them in hard-fought games. Every year it's just the same. Yep, the players every one. Think that winter now is done. Pack their bag with bats and balls. Hear the watching bleacher's call. Baseball news replaces dope. Of Jim Jones, the new "white hope". Sporting pages every day. Carry what the big leagues say. Of some pitcher, who has curves. That will get the batters nerves. All the talk is of the game. (Every April is the same.) Happiness in baseball land! Soon the fans will crowd the stand. "Contract signed," the players sing. "Tis the surest sign of spring!"

ALBERTA HOGS AND LAMBS SHIPPED EAST

Hamilton, Ont., April 6, Horses report the arrival of four cars of lambs shipped from Alberta experimental farms and which arrived in the best of shape and 30 carloads of hogs were also sent from Alberta to first condition, except for minor injuries. Last week 20 carloads of hogs were received by one packing company from the west. These companies claim they cannot secure supplies in sufficient numbers in Ontario and in shipping to Ontario products to the west, as has been customary since the first settlement was organized. The day has seemingly arrived when the tables have turned. Within the next month a great many more shipments will be received. Farmers of Ontario are giving less time and attention to raising hogs than formerly and the price to consumers has increased accordingly.

BANQUET AT MILLET

Those who said that Millet could produce nothing but cream have been proved to be false prophets. It has also produced a live Board of Trade. A few months ago it had but three members. Now it has fifty, and can look back to several notable services rendered to the town. It has delivered the goods which is probably the reason why two hundred and fifty people sat down to do it gastronomic honor at the First Annual Banquet held on April 2nd.

The banquet was held in the Oddfellows Hall. All the prominent citizens of Millet were there and so were all the prominent farmers for miles around. All of which goes to show that the Millet Board of Trade is taking the logical way to build up Millet, i.e., by advertising and holding up the country around it.

After the preliminary business of the evening was disposed of the gathering settled down to speech making. There were many speeches but all were short and to the point and therefore well received. Following is the toast list:

Toast master—F. B. Smith.
A. Morton—Our Empire—E. H. Keith.
C. Wilson—Our Province—T. R. Rogers.
L. A. Kent—Board of Trade—A. G. Mitchell.
J. Jordan—Our Representative—Mr. Tolin, M.P.P.
A. Morton—Our Town—G. Wolf.
H. P. Roper—Agriculture—F. Plonin.
T. Alker—Our Farmers—J. W. Webb.
H. Bowler—Our Cousins—R. J. Patrick.
H. Brown—Our Schools—Gray.
H. C. Young—Our Visitors—F. Spencer.
C. Wagner—The Ladies—B. Gregory.

Among so many suitable speeches it is difficult to select a few upon which to enlarge. Nevertheless it is commonly conceded that Mr. Tolin was in his usual good form, which is equivalent to saying that his remarks made a deep impression on all present. He dropped several valuable hints among which was a suggestion that the Board of Trade might be able to accomplish much by co-operating with the Ladies Board of Trade. He also complimented the Board upon the large percentage of farmers included in its membership. The enthusiastic support it was receiving from the citizens of Millet was also mentioned. E. H. Keith in replying to the toast "Our Empire" proved himself a staunch imperialist. He spoke of the greatness of the British Empire and the problems confronting those who labored to keep it together. The gathering broke up at an early hour in the morning with the singing of the National Anthem.

NEW C. P. R. EQUIPMENT

Five observation cars, containing a drawing room, three staterooms and a library, stocked with the latest books, have just been completed in the shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Montreal and from now on will be in service on the Great West West Express" between Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Edmonton.

New compartment observation cars, and standard twelve-section drawing sleeping cars, have also been added to the "Great West Express" equipment, making this train the equal of the "Imperial Limited," and inferior to none on the continent. These cars are electrically lighted throughout with lights in the upper and lower berths. In the observation cars there are eighteen leather upholstered chairs and on the rear observation platform there is accommodation for 15 seats. The putting into service of these cars is fulfillment of the promise made by the C.P.R. when the new line between Winnipeg and Edmonton, via Yorkton and Saskatoon, was opened.
